

Seven Billion

and counting..... 7,000,000,000

Where is man-kind heading?

Wars and conflicts: We squabble like bickering children as we nurse our hurts. Embitterments that cross generations, grow to anger, vented in atrocities that only serve to perpetuate hatred and mistrust.

And not without good cause are hurts made: The pitiful disgrace and utter shame that in our age some can live in the decadent opulence of yachts and palaces while yet others can be starving and live without shelter. Situations created by an “accepted” value system.

Yes, there is an answer: A transformation of thinking.

For mankind to live his life from a belief in an intellectually derived set of principles based on the concept of love..

the selfish competitive survival of his instinctual nature.
